OTHER REASONS OR FURTHER EXPLANATION:

The Court's findings and reasons for ordering detention, including its consideration of the factors listed in 18 U.S.C. § 3142(g), were stated on the record at the March 3, 2022 hearing and are fully incorporated by this reference. At that time, the Court found by clear and convincing evidence that there is no condition or combination of conditions which will reasonably ensure the safety of the community. This evidence was discussed on the record in support of the Court's reasoning, and includes, but is not limited to evidence that: Defendant has a history which includes fleeing from members of law enforcement. Also, during a previous thirteen-year period of incarceration, Defendant incurred 79 misconducts. This indicates to the Court his adjustment to supervision is likely poor. And according to the proffer of information by the United States, during three separate instances, Defendant distributed illegal controlled substances to a confidential informant. Now made aware of the controlled purchases, Defendant has an incentive to flee as he has attempted before. Finally, while Defendant is aware he is prohibited from legally possessing firearms, he continues to do so. Defendant's history and continued possession of firearms leads the undersigned to the conclusion that there are no conditions or combination of conditions which could be put in place to reasonably assure the safety of the community.

Part IV - Directions Regarding Detention

The defendant is remanded to the custody of the Attorney General or to the Attorney General's designated representative for confinement in a corrections facility separate, to the extent practicable, from persons awaiting or serving sentences or being held in custody pending appeal. The defendant must be afforded a reasonable opportunity for private consultation with defense counsel. On order of a court of the United States or on request of an attorney for the Government, the person in charge of the corrections facility must deliver the defendant to a United States Marshal for the purpose of an appearance in connection with a court proceeding.
